“We are both pleased and excited to be the recipients of the sponsorship provided by the Stephanie Sinkfield Agency of State Farm Insurance,” states Vickie Kellum, President of the Chattanooga Chapter of the National Coalition of 100 Black Women. “The support offered by Mrs. Sinkfield and State Farm Insurance will allow us to continue our community outreach initiatives as we work to fulfill our mission of enhancing educational opportunities for high school graduates through our Reach to the Future scholarship program.”

“As part of the State Farm “Good Neighbor” Grant program, we have the ability to meet the needs of our community where it provides the greatest benefit,” states Mrs.

Sinkfield. "I can think of no better way than to support those who are seeking to attain a higher level of education."

A great proponent of educating Chattanooga's about insurance, retirement and annuities products in order to improve quality of life, Stephanie Sinkfield opened her agency in May of 2006, after serving in multiple management positions for 14 years with State Farm. Mrs. Sinkfield is the wife of Gerald Sinkfield, an engineer with TVA.

The National Coalition of 100 Black Women, Inc., Chattanooga Chapter is an organization that advocates enhanced quality of life for individuals and families of color by facilitating programs that address their needs and unites the public and private sector of Chattanooga to ensure the progress of women of color. While establishing a sisterly bond, these programs foster leadership, educational opportunities, economic partnerships, women's health issues and political strength.
