Chattanooga Chapter of National Coalition of 100 Black Women, Inc. Inducts Five New Members

The Chattanooga Chapter of The National Coalition of 100 Black Women welcomed five new members during their ninth membership installation ceremony held at Second Missionary Baptist Church.

The new members include: Ruthie Hereford, Hamilton County Elementary School Teacher; Ardena Garth Hicks, Hamilton County Public Defender; A. Chantelle Roberson, Managing Partner at the Roberson Hinton LLP Law firm; Terri Rodriguez, Hamilton County Elementary School Guidance Counselor; and Donna Hale Stone, Assistant Administrator, Chattanooga Human Services.

Local NCBW chapter President, Vickie Kellum states, “The experiences and diversity that each of these ladies brings will be embraced by us all. I am pleased that they have decided to join us in our local efforts and share their talents with us. I feel certain that each of them will be a great asset to the organization.

“Each of the ladies was selected based on the leadership, professional experience and commitment to community service that they demonstrated during the application process”, states membership committee co-chairs Gwen Walker and Faith Edwards. “In addition, they have all completed the required orientation process were they became familiar with the organizations policies and procedures.

The mission of the National Coalition of 100 Black Women, Inc., and Chattanooga Chapter is to advocate on behalf of women of color through national and local actions and strategic alliances that promote its national and international agendas on leadership development and on gender equity in health, education, and economic development.
